Robotron: 2084

In this classic arcade game, a player is placed in the role of a mutant human, who has the ability to shoot a laser gun from his body in eight different directions. The player's mission is simple: Save humanity from its own creation – the Robotrons.

Joust

"AT SOME FAR-DISTANT TIME two fantastic gladiators meet and square off for battle. Each is mounted on a fanciful bird of prey (ostrich or stork) whose wings can carry it from the cliff tops to mouth of the abyss and hopefully back...or the bubbling lava will increase its toll.

Defender

Defender is another classic, side-scrolling shooting game. The player's mission, as captain of the Defender, is to protect the humanoids stranded on the planet from their alien abductors.

Defender 2

Defender 2, was originally released in 1981. The game was also known as Defender Stargate. In this highly successful Defender spin-off, a player's ship flies over a horizontally scrolling planet surface, protecting friendly humanoids from alien abduction. Destroying all enemies advances the player to the next wave. Loss of all humanoids destroys the planet until it is reinstated every fifth wave.
